Ohio Accident Toll Monday Is Very Heavy

At Least 18 Killed In Mishaps with 9 Coming in Traffic

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

One of the heaviest accidental death tolls for a weekday was recorded in Ohio Monday.

At least 18 persons died from accidental injuries. They included nine in traffic, three by drowning, three in fires and three in miscellaneous accidents.

In the miscellaneous category were a jet pilot whose Air Force interceptor crashed near Dayton, a Fremont lineman electrocuted while working on a power pole, and a Barberton girl whose foot was cut when she fell from a riding-type lawnmower and she developed a fatal infection.

In addition to the state deaths, at least two Ohioans died in out-of-state traffic accidents—one in Indiana and one in Georgia.

Monday's fatalities by category:

Traffic:

Frank Moody, 57, his wife, Mary, 57, and their son, James, 16, Lorain, when their car and another collided head-on there.

Mrs. Wellie Warner, 64, Rt. 1, Pickerington, when her husband's car and another collided nearly head-on at the angular intersection of Ohio 188 and 256 about 10½ miles northeast of Lancaster, injuring eight others including five children.

Robert C. O'Neill, 22, Cleves, when his car left U.S. 60 in Hamilton County near the Indiana border, clipped off a utility pole and landed in a ditch.

Mrs. Edna Arnold, 83, Lancaster, of injuries received Sunday in a two-car collision on U.S. 33 about 3½ miles north of Lancaster, in which her husband, William, 70, was killed outright.

David W. Doran, 19, Cleveland, when his car crashed into a tree there.

Arthur Utrecht, 71, Cincinnati, of injuries received Saturday when, after he raised the door of his garage at his home, his car rolled forward in the driveway and pinned him against the side of the building.

Mrs. Betty Dougherty, 16, Indianapolis, when the car in which she was riding crashed into a steel utility pole in Springfield.

Floyd Curtis Hart, 17, Rt. 1, Orient, and recently of Columbus, drowned in Big Darby Creek just east of Darbyville in Pickaway County where he had gone swimming with Ernie Sizemore, 17, Rt. 1, Pedro.

Roger Lewis, 13, Rt. 3, Fredericktown, drowned in a farm pond eight miles east of Mount Gilead where he had been swimming with five other boys.

William Gonzales, 5, Lorain, drowned in Lake Erie at Lakeview Park there where he had gone swimming with his family.

Fire:

Mrs. Ronald Truman, 25, mother of four, and her sister-in-law, Mrs. Cecil Summers, 20, mother of one, in a fire in the Wooster apartment they shared.

Glen Wagnor, 66, when fire destroyed his frame dwelling seven miles northeast of Chillicothe.

Miscellaneous:

Richard F. Sours, 28, Fremont, a Toledo Edison Co. lineman electrocuted while working on a high-voltage power line in Gibsonburg, Sandusky County.

Carole Cole, 3, Barberton, apparently from an infection which set in after she cut her foot in the rotary blade of a riding-type lawn mower when she fell off it 10 days ago.

Air Force Capt. Robert L. Straub, 33, when his F105 Thunderchief jet crashed into a hill north of Fairborn while making a final approach to land at Wright-Patterson Air Force Base where he lived.

Out-of-state deaths:

Mildred M. Riess, 62, Cincinnati, when her car left U.S. 441 on a curve and crashed into a tree eight miles north of Clarksville, Ga.

Thomas Albert, 3-week-old son of Mr. and Mrs. John Albert, Rt. 1, Montpelier, Ohio, when his father's car and another collided 14 miles northeast of Fort Wayne on Ind. 37.

KENNEDY GETS A LIFT — President Kennedy (arrow) is hoisted from his Air Force jet by a power lift to protect his back as he returns to Andrews Air Force base from a Florida rest. The President is on crutches here.

Big Housing Bill Is OKd by Senate

WASHINGTON (AP)—A thumping 64-22 Senate passage for the $6.14-billion housing bill gave encouragement to the Kennedy administration today over the House floor fight expected in a few days.

The House Rules Committee is to meet on the legislation Thursday and is expected to clear it for debate starting next week.

Fifty-two Democrats and 12 Republicans supported the measure on final passage in the Senate Monday, with 17 Republicans and 8 Southern Democrats opposed.

This was the heaviest margin piled up in the Senate for any of the major items on President Kennedy's 1961 legislative program.

Sen. John Sparkman, D-Ala., chief sponsor of the bill, told a reporter he felt that with enactment of this measure there would be no need for omnibus housing legislation next year and perhaps for a longer time.

For about a decade Congress has been passing big housing bills almost every year.

But Sparkman pointed out that in the 1961 bill for the first time such key programs as urban renewal, public housing, farm housing, college dormitories, and veterans' housing are being put on a long-term basis.

Another Alabaman, Democratic Rep. Albert Rains, will serve as floor manager for the legislation in the House. The bill approved by the House Banking Committee is substantially similar to the Senate version.

Rains said he did not expect too much trouble with the new moderate income family program which kicked up a big Senate row and was knocked out of the bill temporarily last Thursday.

But he said a House fight was in prospect over public housing and the methods of Treasury advances used to finance many of the programs. These often are denounced as backdoor spending.

U.S. Tractors-for-Freedom Mission Arrives in Havana

HAVANA (AP)—The American mission to exchange tractors for prisoners arrived by air today and was greeted by middle-ranking officials of Prime Minister Fidel Castro's government.

The four members of the mission were received at the airport by Major Luis Crespo of the Institute of Agrarian Reform; Enrique Cabre, chief of machinery of the institute, and Fernando Otero, aide to President Osvaldo Dorticos.

The group went from the airport to the Havana Riviera Hotel.

Castro left for Oriente Province before the arrival of the mission.

Before leaving Miami the group declared its "humanitarian purpose" is to free 1,200 captured invaders by exchanging 500 tractors for them, as originally proposed by Castro.

Team members were hopeful that Castro would be sufficiently anxious to get the several million dollars worth of farm-type tractors they are offering that he will come to quick agreement. They were also keenly aware that the unpredictable Cuban has been talking publicly of terms unacceptable to the Americans.

Castro has said he wants 500 giant tractors of the type normally used for heavy construction such as building roads and airfields, rather than the smaller farming tractors the committee proposes. He also has been vague about what prisoners he would exchange and has hinted he might seek to trade them for Cubans imprisoned elsewhere, rather than for tractors.

The four team members, all experts on various aspects of farm tractors and machinery, are: Duane P. Greathouse, director of the United Auto Workers Agriculture Implement Division; Roy Bainer, chairman of the Agriculture Engineering Department of the University of California; John Bruce Liljedahl, professor of agriculture engineering at Purdue University; and Clarence Hansen, asst. Professor of agriculture engineering at Michigan State University.

Accompanying the group is an interpreter, Hugo Pineda, asst. professor of languages and linguistics at American University.

Two American newsmen granted visas, or entry permits, by the Castro government are Tad Szulc of the New York Times and Robert Boyd of the Knight newspapers. They will be the first U.S. reporters to enter Cuba since American newsmen were forced out after the April 17 abortive invasion.

Ohioan's Trial Jury Hears Taped Record

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—"She was my last fling," the voice on the tape recording said. Byron Baldwin Ashbrook, accused of strangling his wife, sat stolidly as he listened to his own voice.

Defense attorneys agreed Monday at Ashbrook's murder trial to introduction of his tape-recorded story of the Christmas Eve slaying.

For an hour and a half jurors listened impassively as the tape spun out Ashbrook's story of his life with the former Betty Jane Puffer, 36, a divorcee for whom he left a wife and five children and a thriving business career in Newark, Ohio.

"She'll always be the only one," the tape continued. "She had a pleasant smile and bedroom eyes and she liked to talk to me. But I trusted her. A marriage has to be built on some kind of trust."

Ashbrook tensed only slightly and showed little other emotion as he heard his voice recount the woman's death in their apartment.

"She started to put on lipstick in the bathroom," he said. "When she came out I grasped her. I was very weak. It was a hard thing to do. It happened just outside the bathroom. We fell to the floor. She pulled my hair. I guess she scratched my arm."

Ashbrook, 38, declined to give a motive when pressed for one by detectives conducting the taped interview. He said:

"I believe it would be happier if we kept it as her and my secret."

Extensive Overhaul Asked Of Jobless Pay System

Youth, 17, Drowns In Darby Creek

A 17-year-old youth drowned last night in Big Darby Creek near Darbyville after being warned not to swim in the swift current there.

The body of Floyd Curtis Hart, Route 1, Orient, was recovered at 8:43 p. m. by Pickaway County Sheriff Walton W. Spangler.

Spangler said the drowning occurred in Big Darby, just off Route 316, in about 20 feet of water.

This marks the second drowning in Pickaway County this year. Both were victims of Big Darby Creek. The body of a patient at the Orient State Hospital was recovered from the creek March 30, after being missing since Feb. 24.

HART and a companion, Ernie E. Sizemore, 17, Pedro, O., had been warned by people in the area not to swim in the creek because of the swift current, Sheriff Spangler noted.

The Sheriff said the youth drowned at about 8:05 p. m. He said the call was received at about 8:15. The body was recovered during the first trip across the creek, about 15 feet from the bank.

Sizemore said Hart cried out that he "couldn't make it." The companion related that the drowning youth disappeared in the fast moving water and wasn't seen again until recovered by the Sheriff.

The body was taken to the Mader Funeral Home and transferred to the Jerry Spears Funeral Home, Columbus, where arrangements are being completed.

The 17-year-old victim was employed as a farmhand by Milton Renick, Route 1, Orient.

He was born November 11, 1943, and is survived by his mother, Mrs. Juanita Nicholson, Rockbridge, O., and his father, John Hart, Columbus.

Rare, Crunchy Quality Added

MIDDLETOWN, Ohio (AP)—Sgt. Carl Ennis of the Trenton Police says he'll pay more attention to his son's warnings from now on.

Ennis said the boy, Chris, 6, took a bite of his father's ice cream bar. The sergeant took it back and swallowed a sizable portion although the boy cried, "Wait, daddy."

Asked what was wrong, Chris said. "Never mind now, daddy, you've already swallowed my loose tooth."

America Is Urged To Blockade Cuba

WASHINGTON (AP)—A former ambassador says the United States must throw a blockade around Fidel Castro's Cuba.

The ex-envoy, Robert C. Hill, told the Senate Internal Security subcommittee Monday that the United States should ask other hemisphere nations to join the blockade but should do it alone—with military force—if it has to.

Hill, a political appointee who served as ambassador to Costa Rica, El Salvador and Mexico as well as serving a stint as assistant secretary of state for congressional liaison, said Iron Curtain countries are shipping arms into Cuba that "will be used against other Latin-American areas."

Heavy Industry Jobs Pick Up

But Unemployment Totals Remain High

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government reported today a strong pickup in working hours and employment in heavy industry in May, particularly in autos and steel.

A Labor Department report amplifying earlier May job totals said the economy is continuing to show extra seasonal gains.

The work week of the average factory worker moved up more than seasonally from 39.3 hours in April to 39.6 hours in May—the fourth increase in working hours in as many months. The work week has increased nearly a full hour since January, but is still a bit less than a year ago.

Ray Larson, a Labor Department manpower statistics expert, said the steady increase in the work week is a strong indication that employers will continue adding to payrolls.

The number of workers on non-farm payrolls rose by 500,000 to 52.5 million, almost double the usual rise for May. This included a 150,000 job increase in durable goods industries, an area in which employment had fallen by nearly 900,000 from 1960.

The largest gains from April were in steel and auto indusrties and in plants fabricating metal parts for the auto manufacturers. Job increases were reported, however, throughout hard goods manufacturing.

The figures today elaborated on data released nearly two weeks ago showing that over-all employment rose in May by more than a million to 66,778,000 and unemployment declined by nearly 200,000 to 4,768,000.

The unemployment figure is still 1.3 million more than a year ago. The idle figure is due to jump up again to about 5.5 million this month when the usual flood of students enter the labor force seeking summer jobs.

Despite the improvement in steel and auto employment, one out of eight regular workers in both industries was still unemployed in May, a much higher proportion than a year earlier.

20 Die in Collision

STUTTGART, Germany (AP)—Police said at least 20 persons were killed today when two trains collided head-on in Esslingen.

Kennedy Sends Special Report To Congress

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy proposed to Congress today a broad expansion of the unemployment compensation system to increase the amount and duration of benefits and the payroll taxes to pay for them.

Kennedy called for the most extensive overhaul of the jobless insurance plan that has been proposed since it was enacted as part of Social Security during the Roosevelt New Deal.

Most of the suggested changes are long-range in character. They wouldn't go into effect for several years, some not until 1968. This gives Congress plenty of time to take a long hard look at the proposals.

The program was accompanied by administration statements that the federal-state unemployment compensation system has long been in need of reform. It was stated that the system has proved its worth through the years, since enactment in 1935, not only in helping idled workers but in bolstering the economy in bad times.

No cost figures were immediately announced, nor was there any estimate of the amount of additional revenue that would be raised by the proposed higher payroll taxes.

Here are the highlights of Kennedy's proposals:

1. The present temporary plan of extending an extra 13 weeks of benefits to out-of-job workers would be continued permanently for steady workers suddenly made unemployed.

2. The president would be empowered during recessions to extend the 13-week extra benefits to all workers, even those without a long work history.

These two provisions would go into effect in mid-1962 when the present temporary benefit extension legislation expires.

3. The government, under a grants program, would pay two-thirds of the costs of benefits when a state experienced a heavy drain on its funds. This would go into effect in 1962.

4. Beginning in 1964 about 3.5 million more workers would be brought under the system, bringing total coverage to about 50 mil-ping present exemptions for certain small employers, employes of nonprofit organizations, various salesmen and shop operators, and agricultural processing workers.

5. Beginning in 1964 the states would be required to increase benefits. An individual worker would be entitled to half his former regular wage, up to a fixed maximum. Required maximums would be at least half the statewide average weekly wage in 1964-66, 60 per cent of the state average in 1966-68, and 66 2-3 per cent after Jan. 1, 1968.

At present the maximum benefit amounts payable in 46 states are below half the weekly statewide average wage in each of the age about $35.

6. Additional taxes would go into effect in 1964. The base of the

House Votes Hike In Idle Pay Fund

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Higher rates of contributions to the state unemployment compensation fund appeared in store today for all Ohio employers.

The House Monday night, with the votes of 74 Republicans and two Democrats, sent the measure to the Senate. The final tally, with five Republicans opposing the bill, was 76-56 with 70 favorable votes needed to pass a bill. Narrow as the division was, the Senate division probably will be even narrower.

The unemployment compensation bill overshadowed a legislative day which also saw passage of an administration - backed bill to establish a lobby-control commission. The loby-control bill also goes to the Senate.

Democrats, while conceding that the jobless benefits fund needs bolstering to meet any future emergency, object to a number of other provisions which limit eligibility for benefits.

The fund, once near the $700 million mark, now holds less than $200 million. That low mark, under the present law, constitutes the danger mark under which the state must increase all contributions of half of one-percent—or about $37 million a year. Combined, the rate increase and the automatic increase will put about $75 million more in the benefits fund each year.

There was considerable debate Monday night before the House finally "bought" the benefits measure. Both sides gave a little.

But all Democratic attempts to increase the maximum salary on which an employer must contribute to unemployment compensation for a laid-off employe—from $3,000 to $4,800, then from $3,000 to $4,200—were defeated.

Only one Republican and nine Democrats were against a bill to set up the six-member commission to control lobbyists, including public officials.

Before it voted on the measure, which reduces the number of times a registered lobbyist must declare his expenses from the proposed four to three times a year, including the key report within 30 days after the legislature adjourns.

The GOP - sponsored measure was designed, originally to "throw the book" at departmental directors and other public officials who sought to influence the progress of public legislation, for or against. The upshot, however, was that the House gave a prosecution-free holiday to those officials who violate the law against lobbying by transgressing the line between "information" to legislators and active support or opposition to a bill.

Rep. Charles A. Mooney Jr, D-Cuyahoga, while supporting a bill to limit lobbying, assured legislators the bill is not desired to keep lawmakers from accepting lobbyists' hospitality for meals.

As lawmakers began their 24th work week, senators dashed through an eight-bill calendar to clear the docket for House bills. The fast action came as the House defeated a bill to provide for exterior illumination of the State Office Building. The bill, already passed by the Senate, died in its tracks.

In a relatively short session, the Senate completed legislative action on House approved measures TO:

Provide workmen's compensation coverage for apprentices during non-working study time on a voluntary basis.

Permit county commissioners to publish one progress and activity report a year.

The Senate also passed and sent to the House bills to:

Permit the State of Ohio to lay claim to dividends on privately issued stocks and bonds which have gone unclaimed two years.

Let Ohio claim government bonds and other federal property if the last known owner was an Ohioan.

Blood Unit Here Thursday

30 Millionth Pint May Be Collected in City

Pickaway County may be the place where the postwar Red Cross Blood Program will collect its 30 millionth pint of blood Thursday.

Thursday will be the day the Bloodmobile will be making its regular visit to Circleville. The 30 millionth pint of blood collected could be the one donated by an area resident.

There are 47 participating hospitals in the Columbus Regional Area. The Red Cross Blood Program supplies 100 per cent of the blood needed for these hospitals.

According to program officials, this service requires 300 pints of blood per day. The blood is processed and made available to persons in need in a 23-county area surrounding Columbus.

THE lifegiving liquid is used as whole blood for transfusions, fresh frozen plasma, serum albumin, gamma globulin and fibrinogen. Local program workers said the whole blood may be kept only 21 days and after that it is processed into the mentioned factions. None is wasted, they said.

According to tabulations, Pickaway County is behind in its quota this year, having reached its goal the first time during the last bloodmobile visit here.

The local committee hopes to reach a goal of 200 pints Thursday when the mobile unit sets up operations at the First Methodist Church from 11 a. m. to 5 p. m.

Tragic Irony Marks GIs' Slaying Spree

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah (AP)—Two teen-agers, in a tale of tragic irony, say they embarked on seven slayings in five states because as long as they had killed one "we might as well keep on."

But the man they thought they had killed didn't die. Had they quit there, they wouldn't be facing murder charges.

There's another irony. Both James Douglas Latham, 19, Mauriceville, Tex., and George Ronald York, 18, Jacksonville, Fla., say they want to die. They'd prefer the electric chair. But the states with seemingly the strongest cases execute by other means—Kansas by hanging and Colorado by the gas chamber.

What started it? The Army, they claimed at a news conference in Salt Lake County jail Monday. They complained about army harassment. They objected to racial integration in the Army and to serving under Negro officers.

Though they expressed some offhand regret for some of the killings, they didn't for the slaying of John A. Whitaker, an elderly Negro railroad porter in Tullahoma, Tenn., who was robbed and shot to death.

"He was black," York explained. And Latham added: "We don't feel bad about killing a nigger."

Both are AWOL from the Army.

Mighty Baton Toss Brings Fireworks

VENTURA, Calif. (AP)—Steve Hardina, 14, says he is giving up baton twirling.

A mighty toss sent Steve's baton so high in the air that it struck two 4,000-volt power lines, with these consequences:

A 10-block area of the city was blacked out for an hour.

A grass fire was started.

A radio station was knocked off the air.

"I was only trying to toss the baton as high as the power pole, like the man in the circus," Steve explained after Sunday night's fireworks.

1960 County Wage Record Is Center of Controversy

An unusual financial controversy was developing here today, centering around Pickaway County's payroll records for 1959 and 1960.

Most prominently involved in the fiscal dispute are the offices of County Auditor Marvine H. Rhoades and that of James A. Rhodes, Auditor of State for Ohio.

The controversy emanated from a report issued by the State Auditor's office enumerating salaries and wages paid for the past two years by each of Ohio's 88 counties.

The tabulation came to the attention of local authorities when it was noted that, according to the state report, "Three counties, including Huron, Pickaway and Scioto, reported declines in their respective payroll requirements."

THE summary continued to state that the local payroll had declined $80,277 from 1959 to 1960. The listed drop was the greatest in the state.

A check Monday morning with the County Auditor's office brought the comment that the state's figures "were correct."

The two totals listed were $608,981 in 1959 and $528,704 in 1960.

Since several county department heads reported increases, rather than declines in their respective payrolls from 1959 to 1960, a further clarification was sought.

An examination of the county's annual financial reports for the two years Monday afternoon disclosed that, while the 1959 figure coincided with the state's report, the listed total of salaries for 1960 was only $497,529.35.

A telephone call to Ray Palmer, administrative assistant to State Auditor Rhodes, Monday afternoon resulted in a widening of the discrepancy.

PALMER stated at that time that the 1960 figure listed on his news release was apparently incorrect. He added that a statistician would examine the totals immediately.

Later Monday, Palmer said the $528,704 was evidently a "fictitious figure" for 1960. He was unable to identify the immediate source of the incorrect total.

Palmer at that time commented that examiners would check the state's records last night and attempt to justify the totals.

His immediate reaction was that a decrease was improbable, but he declined further comment pending an audit.

Palmer was again contacted to-

Kiwanis Hears CD Area Head

Lindemore Reviews Need for Defense

The Circleville Kiwanis Club was told of the various operations of Civil Defense in Ohio during a regular dinner meeting here last night.

Outlining the Civil Defense operations was Col. Paul Lindemore, CD director of Area No. 2 in Ohio.

Col. Lindemore said Ohio's great production potential makes the state a prime target in case of enemy attack. He said the Buckeye State may be considered the "Bullseye" of any enemy aggressive move.

The Civil Defense official pointed out that Ohio has nine target cities, more than any other state. He said immediate enemy targets in southern Ohio would include the various power plants in this area.

COL. Lindemore explained that citizens should devote more time and effort toward Civil Defense work. He said the urgent need boils down to a matter of survival.

Harry Timmons, Circleville CD director, and Ned Young, County director, accompanied Col. Lindemore to the meeting.

Another guest for the evening was Dan Crabtree of the Circleville General Electric plant.

The meeting next Monday will be in the form of a picnic at Camp Oti-Okwa in Hocking County.

Last night's meeting was conducted by Vice President Truman Eberly who spelled President E. R. Bennett. Bennett was required to be at another meeting.

day. He then stated that both the $608,981 and $528,704 totals listed in his original report were correct.

In the meantime, County Auditor Rhoades had checked her records and found that the 1960 salary total for Berger Hospital had been lumped with the hospital's total operating cost.

SHE stated that this was a probable source of the discrepency. Palmer had earlier noted that the hospital figures for wages were inconclusive.

While both parties have agreed on the accuracy of the 1959 total, dispute persists concerning the 1960 figure.

Mrs. Rhoades, in a recalculation, stated that the correct 1960 total was $643,721.04. This represents an actual increase of $34,739.98. in the comparative figures.

She denied any knowledge of the $528,704 figure released by the State Auditor's office. An examination of her original reports failed to uncover any such figure.

Both offices concurred that the aggregate 1960 Berger Hospital figure might help balance the books if broken down into specific items.

An additional set of figures was disclosed by the County Auditor's staff late Monday. A check of workmen's compensation records for the two years indicated that the comparative totals were $632,376.07 for 1959 and $685,413.27 for 1960.

OFFICIALS of the State Auditor's Office stated they would reexamine their records in detail to uncover any possible error.

Totals and percentages computed by the State Auditor's office on the basis of the original figures are "invalid" now, according to Palmer.

federal payroll tax would be increased from the first $3,000 of wages to the first $4,800.

Also the increased tax rate scheduled to go into effect only in 1962 and 1963, to pay for the present temporary benefits extension, would be made a permanent increase. This runs to eight-tenths of one per cent of payrolls.

After 1963, employers would lose allowable tax credits in states failing to meet federal requirements as to benefits.

Idle workers also could lose their right to benefits if they refused to take retraining or refresher courses prescribed to fit them for new jobs. In this connection the administration earlier proposed a four-year $700-million retraining relocation program.

Kennedy has been working since he took office in January on a permanent revision of the unemployment compensation program—part of the Social Security System enacted during the Roosevelt New Deal.

Federal action to raise the amount of benefits would be a departure from tradition. Until now the level of benefits has been left to the states to fix, with the result that benefits vary widely from state to state. The nationwide average is about $32 per week.

Congress twice has had to lengthen duration of benefits for temporary periods to combat privation among the jobless during recessions. This happened first during the administration of former President Dwight D. Eisenhower after the 1958 recession.

Again this spring Congress enacted a temporary program to extend by a maximum of 13 weeks the benefits a worker can receive after exhausting his regular benefits. In most states regular benefits run for a maximum of 26 weeks.

New Orleans Chief Named Ambassador

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy today picked Mayor DeLesseps Morrison of New Orleans to be U.S. ambassador to the Organization of American States.

Morrison said he would resign as mayor of New Orleans to accept the post.

White House press secretary Pierre Salinger said Morrison would be one of the leaders of the American delegation to an inter-American economic conference in Montevideo, Uruguay, in mid-July.

Salinger said there still has been no decision as to whether Kennedy will attend the conference but that the matter has been under discussion.

Keep Horses in Mind

The world is coming close to full circle in this matter of transportation, as a demonstration in New York City proves. It took only 4½ minutes longer for a horse and buggy to get across Manhattan than it did a chauffeur - driven private automobile.

A motor scooter nosed out a taxi by 10 seconds in the race, while the taxi was 3 minutes 5 seconds ahead of the private car.

Transportation problems that are felt in all cities in some degree are magnified in New York City. But the race shows the direction in which man is headed. How long will it be before cities choke on a mass of automobiles? Homo sapiens may need that horse yet.

Helicopter Sets Records Too

While U. S. Navy fighter jets were blasting in with a new transcontinental speed record, a Navy helicopter was setting a new speed record of its own. Of course, the twin - turbine whirly - bird's 174.9 miles an hour was submerged in the 2-hour, 47-minute transit from Pacific to Atlantic.

The world will not soon forget the spectacle of America's first astronaut being plucked gently from the sea by this reliable workhorse of the sky, a symbolic greeting to the opening space age by a trusty veteran of the air age.

Older Folks To Get Powerful

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP) — Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

The ability of old folks to vote themselves what they want grows year by year. In 40 years the percentage of the population 65 or over has grown from 8.1 to 15.4.

The numbers of our elderly will double in another four decades—we now have a million people over 85 years old, an increase in this age bracket of 920 per cent since 1920.

But here's an oddity about longevity: Women have more ailments requiring bed rest than men do—but they live more than six years longer!

A nation on wheels: Three out of four U.S. families now have one or more cars.

Bowling now is crowding fishing for the honor of being America's top participant sport. But in the third century bowling at pins wasn't a game but a religious ceremony.

Odd legislation: A town in Colorado once had a law banning residents from permitting dandelions to grow in their front yards

Our quotable notables: "Doctors will have more lives to answer for in the next world than even we generals." — Napoleon Bonaparte.

Fashion note: Almost every savage tribe has considered it stylish to wear ear rings. In the past these beauty ornaments have weighed up to three pounds.

Weather fact: Somewhere the earth is always in storm. An average of a hundred lightning bolts flash every minute of the day.

Do you feel our current crop of Socrates, the wisest man of ancient Greece, complained, "Our youth now loves luxury. They have bad manner, contempt for authority; they show disrespect for elders, and they love to chatter instead of exercise."

Signs of the times: At the Del Pazzo bar here: "If you're drinking to forget—please pay in advance."

What is the largest creature that ever lived on land or sea? Not the dinosaur but the blue whale, still very much alive. It reaches a length of 100 feet and a weight of 150 tons. Some whales at birth weigh twice as much as a large elephant, the second biggest mammal.

Your heart is a strong slave. Each day it pulses enough energy to lift 80 tons.

How far can you broad jump? Your own length? Well, the little cricket frog can hop 40 times its length from a standing start.

The sad truth: "Your money may not go very far nowadays, but somehow it always seems to be able to make it to the tax collector".

If you want to live in the White House, first get a wife. Only two bachelors (James Buchanan and Grover Cleveland) and two widowers (Thomas Jefferson and Martin Van Buren) were elected U.S. president.

Missouri is the only state with cave safety laws. It has a record 437 caves in 55 of its 114 counties. (Delaware is reported to be the only state without caves.)

The push button automatic elevator is now commonplace in most new office buildings. But many early day elevators were operated by steam engines.

It was Dr. Beran Wolfe who observed, "If you live only for yourself, you are always in immediate danger of being bored to death with the repetition of your own views and interests."

Popularity Has Political Value

By George Sokolsky

Personal popularity has the political value of making it smoother for a President to carry his program to completion. An unpopular President may be the rightest man in all this world but Congress always responds to the voice of the people, as it should, and if the people do not like the President, for one reason or another, Congress will fight him.

John Kennedy, as a candidate was not particularly popular. Neither was his opponent, Richard Nixon. Their debates, while novel, were not too exciting. Such a display of forensics will not likely be tried too soon again. Kennedy was elected by a small popular vote, which translated into political terms ordinarily would mean that he would not exercise much influence over Congress.

Then came the first hundred days. John Kennedy developed a personal popularity of major political significance. The general sentiment was that he ought to be given a chance. His press interviews, in contrast with President Eisenhower's which were extra-ordinarily dull and ambiguous, were exacting and informative. Jack Kennedy answers questions with certainty and sparkle.

The spell of popularity continued to swell until the Cuban fiasco which hurt President Kennedy's reputation, particularly as he assumed full responsibility instead of firing those who were really responsible for errors of judgement and of commission. His avoidance of an immediate decision against Castro looked like indecisiveness. Many who had looked upon Kennedy as a possible Moses, took a second look at him and critics became numerous.

The White House sped up its public relations program, emphasizing the glorious womanhood of Mrs. Kennedy, the charm of Caroline, the brilliance of Bobby. But it did not work and had there been someone with the sharpness of William Randolph Hearst to shout "Remember the Maine!" no one could have known what might have happened. But Kennedy remained adamant. He would not risk a war over Berlin because of any action he might take in Cuba.

Again many stepped back to ask whether Kennedy was strong enough, mature enough to head its nation. Criticism was no longer only political; it became personal.

Then he went to Europe, to Paris, Vienna and London and conquered a continent by his personality, his culture, his charm, his surprising knowledge and his wife. It was a public relations job but an extraordinarily brilliant one. Without a single misstep, without an iota of cheapness, President and Mrs. Kennedy captured the hearts of the masses.

In Great Britain, this was particularly fortunate, because the British have been moving away from us in many directions. It is more important for the United States, from a practical standpoint, that half a million Londoners came out to shout themselves hoarse for Jack and Jackie, than that Khrushchev should have behaved like a gentleman, which he did. Londoners do not shout for foreigners very readily.

What Kennedy actually accomplished was to overcome the froth of minor antagonisms and to re-establish such unity as Winston Churchill produced during the worst days of World War II. And this was accomplished without saying one word or making a single gesture.

Mass popularity is a major quality in international relations. Winston Churchill could do no wrong, could say nothing untoward, so far as the American people are concerned. He was a master of public opinion in his hey-day and could do more with the wave of a hand than most politicians could accomplish with profound speeches. Apparently John Kennedy possesses this same quality — a warmth of personality which carries itself not only to individuals but to great masses.

Actually, President Kennedy did not achieve an agreement about anything. Even his understanding with Prime Minister Macmillan is only a repetition of an already established position. Nevertheless the enthusiasm of the British people for President Kennedy and his wife re-established a cordiality which even Franklin D. Roosevelt did not achieve in Great Britain. That popularity can stand the United States in good stead in the forthcoming discussions, particularly as it becomes increasingly necessary for this country to find a unification of policy with Great Britain.

Although the United States is probably the strongest nation on earth, it cannot stand alone. The world today is too complex, too involved, for any one nation to stand absolutely alone. From an historical standpoint, Anglo-American friendship must be the foundation of policy and that has been strengthened by John Kennedy's visit.

"In the future if you chew slippers, make sure no one's wearing them!"

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

THE LATE CONNIE MACK, Philadelphia Athletics manager, always insisted that the social amenities be strictly observed in his club.

One afternoon, an awed rookie in the outfield was doing fine until the opposing club advanced a runner to third base with only one out. The next batter lofted a dinky fly to the rookie, far too short to score the runner from third. The rookie pocketed the fly. Unfortunately, he ignored the runner at third and tossed the ball casually to Eddie Collins, the Athletics' second-sacker.

At the end of the inning, Connie Mack inquired softly, "Son, why didn't you fire the ball to home plate?"

"I couldn't do that," explained the recruit. "Mr. Collins is the only man on the team you've introduced me to so far. I'm sure you wouldn't want me to throw to a total stranger!"

Inside You and Yours

By BURTON H. FERN, M. D.

Mother had riches, but no support!

Those stong muscles supporting her pelvic organs had stretched when she gave birth. Now she had triple trouble—cystocele, rectocele and fallen womb.

These supporting muscles normally form a large funnel with three separate openings — the bladder's passage, the birth canal and the intestine. All three organs are supported by this strong muscular funnel.

Because each passage curves, no weight pushes down through any openings. But when difficult deliveries or repeated births stretch this funnel it droops, allowing every organ to push into the birth canal.

The bladder pushes from the front (cystocele) while in the intestine bulges from in back (rectocele). And the womb sinks straight down, sometimes to the outside world!

Straining no longer empties bladder or intestine. Each merely bulges further into the birth canal. Every cough and sneeze squeezes fresh drops down the drain, while germs swim upstream to frolic in and infect the never-empty bladder.

Thickened womb lining triggers a painful, irregular menstrual flow. Babies stop arriving. Even those that begin to grow are soon lost.

The back aches and bottom drags as the womb tips backward and supporting muscles sag.

Like a tailor, the surgeon tightens sagging muscles and takes up the slack. He anchors the birth canal just beneath the front pelvic bones where no organ can push down into it. The doctor may prescribe a special spring-like ring to support the sagging organs before surgery.

Resting flat in bed immediately after giving birth takes the stress and strain off the muscular funnel and lets it tighten. Later, your doctor may advise you to kneel on the bed and bend forward until chest and shoulders touch the mattress. Pelvic organs now swing into position, while extra blood flow tones up sagging muscle fibers.

Upside-down exercises and right-side-up surgery can usually guarantee the poorest mother good support!

Dr. Fern's mailbox is wide open for letters from readers. While he cannot undertake to answer individual letters, he will use readers' questions in his column whenever possible and when they are of general interest. Address your letters to Dr. Fern in care of this newspaper.

The Business World

By Sam Dawson

NEW YORK (AP)—The gold barometer currently is registering better weather for the U.S. dollar—and stormy prospects for the English pound.

But financial observers stress that the change is in the weather, always a temporary thing financially, and not in the long-term climate.

That is, they expect the British to ride out the buffeting of the pound by the current squall line of international currency turmoil. And they warn that the dollar's troubles of last fall could return, unless the nation's fundamental and still continuing financial problems are solved.

The current, situation is pleasant enough for the U.S. dollar.

The outflow of gold which reached a climax last October with a sharp but short rise in the world price for gold has been brought to a halt. And the most recent statement shows that the U.S. gold hoard actually increased by $17.4 million in the week ended June 7. This was the largest gain for any week in 3½ years. This cut the outflow of gold for the year to date to $339 million.

The net outflow of gold between last July 1 and Feb. 21, when the steady loss came to a halt, was $2 billion. The price of gold, which rose on the London free market to nearly $41 an ounce in October, is now down to just above $35.06. This is less than it costs to buy it from the U.S. Treasury at $35 and transport it there.

During the gold rush of last year, 26 countries bought gold from the United States. Great Britain bought $700 million worth in the last half of 1960 and $150 million in the first three months of 1961, the most of any nation. But the flow apparently has been reversed in recent weeks

Britain has been having her troubles. Imports have been running ahead of exports. Foreign-owned short-term funds which had been flowing into London because interest rates were high there have been withdrawn because rates have fallen. So British reserves of gold and ollars have been falling and the pound has been weak on foreign exchange markets.

Wall Street figures that London may have been selling gold here to get the dollars she needs.

The abortive run on the dollar last fall followed rumors that the United States might devaluate it by raising the official price of gold above $35 an ounce. The rumors fed on a three-year deficit in overseas payments which had led to a steady loss of U.S. gold.

The deficit was caused by the greater outflow of dollars abroad for imports, foreign aid, military bases, private investment, tourist travel than was returned by the sale of exports, returns on overseas investments and on various services.

The run on the dollar halted after both the Eisenhower and the Kennedy administrations vowed to protect the dollar and to keep the price of gold at the present level.

Dear Abby...

By Abigail VanBuren

Forget It, Lady!

DEAR ABBY: I am disgusted with my husband because of a most irritationg habit he has. He crumbles up crackers and puts them in his soup when we are out in company. I think crackers should be eaten WITH the soup, not IN the soup.

Am I mistaken? Or is he? This has been going on for almost 40 years.

IRRITATED

DEAR IRRITATED: Crackers should be eaten WITH the soup—especially in public. But if this is his most irritating habit after 40 years, I would say you have a crackerjack marriage.

DEAR ABBY: I am a grandmother who baby-sits for my grandchildren. I go any time they call me because I love the little ones. My son-in-law picks my husband and me up and takes us to his house to sit with the children, and as soon as they get home, they rush us home again. They are always in such a hurry. My husband and I hardly ever get to visit with our children because they never invite us to their home, except to baby-sit, and they never have time to come to our home. I wonder if other grandparents are treated the way we are?

JUST BABY-SITTERS

DEAR JUST: Many are—but they have only themselves to blame. He who allows himself to be used as a doormat should not complain when he is stepped on.

DEAR ABBY: How does a girl get her reputation back? I did some foolish things in the past year, and there are not many secrets in this town. I quit high school to work (car hop) because I hated school and couldn't get along with my teachers.

There are several (four to be exact) boys who know all about my past because they were a part of it. They all have big mouths, and now the only reason a boy asks to take me out is to see how much he can get from me. I am tired of this, Abby. I want to be respectable. How can I convince everybody that I have changed my ways? I can't talk to my parents. I have no girl friends. My age is 16.

CHANGED

DEAR CHANGED: It is difficult to "start over" in the community where you have made your mistakes. If you have friends or family elsewhere, go there. Earn a high school diploma (you can go to night school or do it by mail if you must work). Rebuild your own self-respect if you would earn the respect of others. Good luck.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "NERVOUS BRIDE": Tell your "old boy friend" you are being married, or the something blue at your wedding will be you.

Everybody has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to Abby, Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif. Be sure to enclose a stamped self-addressed envelope.

Mrs. Ray Reid will serve as cohostess. She announced that those attending should bring their own table service.

Berry Active Businessman In Ashville for 40 Years

FIRST STATION — Here is the first service station built by Clarence E. Berry in Ashville. The small structure with its three tall pumps was constructed in 1932. A new, modern station and bulk plant stands at the same location today.

NEW STATION — Here Clarence Berry stands beside two pumps at his new service station in Ashville. The modern facility, along with a new bulk plant, constitute a landmark for Berry who has been in the petroleum business in Ashville for 40 years.

Clarence E. Berry, 72, is easily considered one of the foremost veteran businessmen in Ashville.

Berry arrived in Ashville 40 years ago to work for T. A. Boor in the marketing of petroleum products. Today he has his own service station and a modern bulk plant which serves the Ashville community.

Berry remembers that in his early days at Ashville, petroleum products were delivered by hand in five - gallon buckets and through high glass pumps that were operated by hand.

His job is much easier today. The products now are delivered through power driven pumps.

IN 1932 Berry added a notch to the development of Ashville by building his first service station, at the same location of his present day modern bulk plant and station.

At the time his first station was going up, his son, Louis, joined him in the business. In 1942 another son, Donald, became part of the operation.

The Ashville man fulfilled his dreams by building his bulk plant last year. He is now a complete jobber of petroleum products.

Berry has sold Mobiloil products continuously for 40 years. He is believed to be the oldest active businessman in the same business in Ashville today.

The veteran petroleum man married Maude Hoover who died in 1946. The Ashville citizen observed his 72nd birthday on May 22.

Advice for Women

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP) — "The home should not become the graveyard of the average woman's intellect," warned Mrs. Paul Douglas, wife of the U. S. Senator from Illinois.

She told a group of university women that "women must keep their interest fresh, even when their children are young, lest they be unable to recapture that interest when the 'new Leisure' time comes."

"It is not the lack of opportunity, but lack of the knowledge of what to do with all the opportunities which leads to frustration and the dead end of discontent," she said.

Cancer Search Remains

WASHINGTON (AP) — The search for more effective medicines for use in treating cancer is a massive one.

There are now about 20 compounds used in the fight against cancer, according to the Pharmaceutical Manufactures Assn. But in the last three years, says the association, tens of thousands of chemicals, compounds or other substances have been tested in laboratories.

In 1958, only 60 of 28,000 substances studied proved worthy of clinical investigation on humans. In 1959, out of 36,000, there were 49 given further study. Figures are not in for 1960.

Old Dobbin Must Travel on Left Side

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A new Ohio law requires you to ride or lead your horse on the left side of a street or highway outside municipalities.

The statute was among 10 legislative enactments signed Mosday by Gov. Michael V. DiSalle. They become effective in 90 days.

The governor criticized pending legislation to boost employer contributions to the badly depleted unemploymest compensation fund, from which jobless benefits are paid.

Scheduled for a vote in the house today, the measure would increase maximum contribution rates from 2.7 to 4 per cent of annual payrolls but leave intact the $3,000 salary base limit for payments. Attempts to lift the base to $4,800 failed.

Newly signed laws include an exemption for gum ball and vending machines from Ohio's $5 annual food service license.

Another increases rates for legal advertising in newspapers and law journals from $1.50 to $2 a square for first insertions and from 75 cents to $1 for subsequent publication. The measure also lowers the circulation requirement for such ads from 25,000 to 15,000. The reduction boosts from 19 to 37 the number of papers eligible for annual costract rates.

what makes an ALL-AMERICAN?

Courage ... drive ... determination ... teamwork ... a flaming competitive spirit. These are among the important things which make an All-American, on the playing field or in civic progress ☆ ☆ ☆

☆ 6 All-America cities

Since 1952, six cities along the N&W have shown these high qualities, and have been awarded the coveted "All-America City" award by LOOK magazine and the National Municipal League. They are: Norfolk, Petersburg, Roanoke, Radford, Va.; Winston-Salem, N.C.; Columbus, Ohio. The All-America designation is a tribute to the progressive, dynamic spirit of these N & W communities and their dedicated citizens. Winners are selected on a basis of "outstanding civic achievements of benefit to the community as a whole . . . achievements resulting from citizen action."

☆ Many benefits result

In addition to the sound achievement and honor of the award itself, the nation-wide renown resulting from being selected an "All-America City" brings other important benefits. The city is dramatically called to the attention of site-seeking industries. Local groups are given a potent asset for industrial development. Municipal pride is expressed in even greater progress and renewed efforts to improve the community.

☆ An inspiration for other cities

The achievements of these six cities can be matched by others in N & W territory. How? A revitalized, prideful community spirit . . . an awareness of community problems . . . a strong determination to solve those problems by positive action . . . support your Chamber of Commerce and other civic groups . . . help plan improvements and publicly support them . . . work for sound local government, educational, recreational and cultural progress. Municipal progress and industrial development depend upon action by the individual citizen—YOU!

The N & W is deeply interested in the growth and development of the communities it serves. The Norfolk and Western stands with you . . . in looking just one way—Forward!

NICHOLAS DRIVE — Here is the beginning of the new six-room elementary school at Nicholas Drive. Only dirt, concrete footers and underground plumbing are visible now, but the school is scheduled to be under roof by the end of summer. The first classes there are slated for the fall of 1962. School Construction Moves Along Here at Steady Pace

Construction of the new six-room elementary school at Nicholas Drive and the addition of 10 rooms at the S. Court St. Elementary School is continuing at a fast pace here.

Excavation at both sites has been completed, according to Superintendent of Schools George A. Hartman. Footers also are almost erected.

Hartman said the new school and the additional rooms are scheduled to be ready for class work in the fall of 1962. He said both projects should be under roof by the end of this summer.

Inside work is scheduled when the colder months roll around.

FUNDS for the new school projects were provided by the $550,000 bond issue approved by Circleville voters in the November General Election. General contracts for both jobs were awarded to the Sever-Williams Co. of Washington C. H.

According to the contracts awarded, costs of the two building projects will be about the same. Only six rooms are planned at Nicholas Drive, but the difference in cost stems from initial construction there, Hartman pointed out.

Bricks for the two jobs have been selected and some have been delivered and stored at the sites.

According to construction reports, underground plumbing at Nicholas Drive is nearing completion. These facilities are supposed to be serviced by the proposed Circleville Sewer District No. 2 project which is currently before City Council.

Legislation approving construction of Sewer District No. 2 was held to first reading last week by the Council.

Hartman said the original construction of S. Court St. Elementary School provided for future additions. He said the same plan will be followed at Nicholas Drive.

How Weather Looks Today

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Official Weather Bureau summary of Ohio's weather outlook:

The morning weather map showed high pressure over the Southeastern States and low pressure over the Central and Great Plains States.

This combination will continue the warm, humid weather of the past two days in Ohio. A few more scattered thundershowers will appear this afternoon. On Wednesday, with low pressure moving closer to Ohio, the prospects indicate more numerous thundershowers.

There are no immediate signs of a break in the humid weather except along the shores of Lake Erie, where the winds will blow in from the lake on Wednesday.

For the greater part of Ohio, temperatures will climb to around 90 again this afternoon. The highest registered Monday afternoon was 94 at Cincinnati. Cleveland, Toledo and Marietta had 91.

This morning the temperatures ranged from 67 at Zanesville to 71 at Findlay.

Laos is about twice the size of Pennsylvania. ,

It's Final Now: Perry Mason To Continue on TV Schedule

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Fans of the Saturday night who-did-it will be happy to know that all is peace once more in the Perry Mason family. Perry is back in the fold.

Raymond Burr is the living image of Perry, of course, and ever will be in the minds of millions of fans of the Erle Stanley Gardner mysteries.

For a few anxious weeks, it looked as though Burr might fly the coop. Now the troubles are resolved, and the resolution bodes well for future years of the popular series.

Burr explains: "It wasn't a matter of my holding out for a change of contract or a change of venue." These legal terms have rubbed off on him; the latter means change of a trial, for good cause shown, from one county to another.

The actor wasn't seeking to change counties. As he put it: "The issue was whether they would change the show so I could continue with it."

Burr's situation has been well chronicled in this space and elsewhere. It was that he found himself faced with a superhuman task of delivering weekly more dialogue than the average leading man has in a feature movie.

And did it for four years with scarcely a let-up, except for enforced stays in the hospital.

The producers came up with a formula to keep their Perry before the bar.

"It is quite simple," said Burr. "I now will work only five days out of every six. In other words, no matter how long the shooting of a program will take, I will be assured the sixth day off. That will be enough to regain my strength, whereas working six or seven days at 18 hours a day became virtually impossible."

Though he had another Emmy in his satchel, Burr didn't use it or any other means to exact more money from his employers.

Cincinnati Woman, 30, Convicted in Slaying

CINCINNATI (AP)—Mrs. Pearl Mae Wilson, 30, convicted of killing a man, must wait to learn her penalty. Sentencing was deferred after she was found guilty Monday of first-degree manslaughter in the fatal shooting of Smith G. Robinson, 58, at her Cincinnati home.

Mrs. Wilson, in her defense in Hamilton County Common Pleas Court, testified she shot Robinson in self-defense March 10. She had been charged with second-degree murder.

Niles Mayor Orders Crackdown on Gambling

WARREN, Ohio (AP) — Mayor Thomas R. Smith of Niles has told Police Chief John Ross that he must crack down on gambling or lose his job. Recalling he gave a similar order last year, Smith said: "This is not going to be a two-week deal. It's going to be permanent."

Smith was defeated for renomination in the May primaries by Carl Rettig.

Red Rain

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP) —"It's raining red paint!" exclaimed an excited citizen on the phone, complaining about his dripping red automobile.

An investigation by the city's Public Works Department showed that a workmen scooping up red dye in a chemical plant was standing too close to a ventilator. The fan was drawing up dust and spraying it into the rainy outdoors.

"The dye has a high tinctorial value," said an official. "A little spot, when wet, goes a long, long, way."

The prescription: A detergent, an auto wax, some elbow grease.

PROBERS MEET NEW TRUJILLO—Ambassador Augusto Arango of Panama, chairman of the Organization of American States subcommittee investigating charges of oppression in the Dominican Republic, smiles after meeting Rafael Trujillo Jr. in Ciudad Trujillo. Members of the OAS group motored to the airfield to meet the new head of the armed forces. Trujillo, whose father was assassinated, released Maj. Delio Gomez, leader of a Cuban invasion force against the Dominican Republic two years ago, and put him on a plane for Havana.

The World Today

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON (AP) — If President Kennedy serves two terms, he'll look like an oldtimer in world affairs when he leaves the White House in January 1969.

The reasons:

1. At 44 he is now 23 years younger than any of 10 major world leaders.

2. By 1969 most of them probably will be out of the picture.

At the moment none of them shows signs of weakening, politically or physically.

But the three youngest are already 67, or 23 years older than Kennedy: Russia's Premier Khrushchev, Britain's Prime Minister Macmillan and Red China's boss, Mao Tze-tung.

If Kennedy and these three hang on till January 1969, then Kennedy will be close to 54, Khrushchev and Macmillan will be nearing 75, and the Red Chinese leader will have reached 75.

The oldest world leader now, West Germany's Chancellor Adenauer, at 85 is 41 years older than the President. By American inauguration day, Jan. 20, 1969, he'd be 93.

Here, in the descending order of their years, are the other six leaders with their present age and, in parentheses, their age on the day Kennedy would finish a second term, if they're still around:

Chiang Kai-shek, boss of Nationalist China on Formosa, 73 (81).

Antonio Salazar, dictator of Portugal, 72 (79).

India's Prime Minister Nehru, 71 (79).

France's President de Gaulle, 70 (78).

Yugoslavia's Marshal Tito, 69 (76).

Francisco Franco, dictator of Spain, 68 (76).

These next eight years will take a toll in men and no doubt make a change in nations.

In eight years Red China probably will have nuclear bombs. Up till now the Chinese Communists, lacking the power with which the United States protects Chiang on Formosa, have limited themselves to nuisance bombardments of offshore islands—no real danger to Formosa 110 miles away.

But once they get nuclear destruction, the picture in Asia will change, the threats to Formosa should become more fierce.

Dictator Salazar of Portugal looked solid in his job for so long as he lived. Then natives in the Portuguese African colony of Angola began storming for freedom, killing as they went and being killed.

Angola seems bound to blow up before another eight years have passed. If it does, Salazar may be destroyed in the ruins.

Nehru in India seems so solid with his people that he figures to run the show so long as he lives, unless within these next eight years there come explosions which now can't be guessed at.

In France De Gaulle is now head man. But his presidency may not be too secure, particularly if the French problem with Algeria takes a new and savage turn or the army turns on him.

In Yugoslavia Tito looks powerful enough to stay where he is. So does Franco in Spain — so long as he lives.

It doesn't seem likely Adenauer could stand the strain of office until he's 93. Even if he does, some terribly tense days lie ahead for his country in the Western struggle with Russia over Berlin.

There's no sign anyone is trying to shove Khrushchev or Mao Tze-tung aside. In their case their only problem in continuing to boss the show would seem to depend on their health.

As for Britain's Macmillan — he's a busy man but the strain of office seems to be showing. He looks tired.

SOME TRIP — Tommy Kemp, 9, of Denver, points to the 14-inch opening of a drain pipe into which he was sucked by draining rain water. He suffered only minor bruises and a bad scare after his 245-foot trip through the length of the pipe. The pipe's other end is behind the house in the background.

Clermont Prosecutor Challenges Auditor

BATAVIA, Ohio (AP) — Clermont County Auditor J. F. Paschal has been challenged by Ralph A. Hill, prosecuting attorney, to explain his statement to County Commissioners that the county has been broke seven years. Hill cited annual reports by the auditor's office showing favorable balances on Dec. 31 each year.

Ohio Mental Clinics Get Finance Warning

Dr. Robert A. Haines, department director, said conferences with each superintendent are being held now.

Old Rockin' Chair's Got JFK; and It's Good Thing

WASHINGTON (AP)—Old rockin' chair's got President Kennedy at last and it's a good thing, too.

So observes James (Scotty) Reston, chief Washington correspondent for the New York Times. Reston points out:

Not so long ago Kennedy was supposed to be too young to sit down with Nikita Khrushchev, and now it turns out that he has been geting old-age medical assistance for his aching back.

This bum back may prove to be the best break he has had since meeting Miss Jacqueline Bouvier. Something had to bench him soon. He has been keeping a schedule that would kill a brewery horse, and something had to remind him that his touch football days are over.

It is only a year since he was running up and down the valleys of West Virginia in that critical state primary election. Since then life has been no rest cure; the convention, the campaign, the organization of the government, the inaugural, the recession and Khrushchev, not to mention our bearded neighbor, Castro.

In these four and one-half months Kennedy has been something more than the principal administrator of the government. He has been trying to be President of the United States, leader of the Allied coalition, secretary of state, chief Democratic whip, official host and greeter, principal negotiator overseas, chairman of the Democratic National Committee, father, husband, son and brother.

On top of all this he has been trying to be nice to his old pals in the House, the Senate, and the press, while performing as commander in chief, commencement speaker,, number one television star, and genial host to the graduationg class of Tomah High star, and genial host to the graduating class of Tomah High School, of Tomah, Wis.

This is enough to slip a disk on a Sherman tank, and it is interesting to compare it with Khrushchev's routine. While Kennedy was roaring through Paris, consuming sixteen light French snacks, lighting torches and laying wreaths on graves, negotiating with De-Gaulle, addressing gabbles of reporters, jumping in and out of fullful toasts to fashioable ladies and gentlemen, Nikita was rolling leisurely across the steppes of Russia and Eastern Europe in a slow train.

Accordingly, Khrushchev arrived in Vienna the day before the big meeting fresh as an oyster, while Kennedy bounced down out of a thunderhead sky in a jet on the morning of the big game, and was in the middle of negotiations before he had time to powder his nose.

Fortunately his back buckled usder the strain and he now has time to meditate on the difference between motion and progress. Also the problems before him since the Grand Tour are not physical but mental. He has put his calipers on the world. He has measured the distance between what is desirable and what is attainable, and now he has to get into that rocking chair and figure out what to say and do.

No President since the war ever had a more difficult or dangerous quiz. What does he do for example, to prepare for the coming crisis on Berlin now that Khrushchev has refused to budge? What about the nuclear test ban now that Khrushchev has insisted on his veto on inspection? What about the alliance now that everybody has agreed on the need for more consultation and unity? What about Laos now that the Chinese have apparently insisted that the cease-fire there be ignored?

What he decides on these questions is likly to have a profound and perhaps a decisive effect on the rest of his Administration, and fortunately he is in a better state of mind to grapple with them now than he was three weeks ago.

This is one of the good things about his recent trip. It demonstrated to everyone who saw him, including himself, that he could bat in the big leagues. He has not yet been given due credit for his achievements in Paris, Vienna and London. Despite the physical strain, and the lack of tangible progress, he has nevertheless com back with a much clearer idea of what has to be done and with much greater confidence in his ability to do it.

In this sense, all the hurry and motion of the last few months have no doubt been useful and maybe even necessary. He has gone through a hard initiation and come out of it a wiser man, but it is a good thing that the old rocking chair finally got him. A young President plus a Boeing 707 jet is a good combination, but a young President plus a Boeing 707 plus a rocking chair is even better.

U.S., Canada To Swap Planes

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States and Canada are negotiating an exchange of military plases.

This was confirmed by the Defense and State departments after the Canadian press said the two countries would sign an agreement within 48 hours. The Canadian Press said the planes were worth $320 million.

According to Canadian Press, the agreement included these provisions: Canada acquires 66 American-made F101 Voodoo jet fighters; the United States places orders for Canada to produce 200 F104G Starfighter jets to be shipped to North Atlantic Treaty Organization allies, and Canada takes over operation of the Pine Tree radar line, running across Canada just above the border between the two countries.

Dominicans Point Finger At Top Aides

CIUDAD TRUJILLO, Dominican Republic (AP) — Announcement that a former defense secretary was involved in the assassination of dictator Rafael Trujillo has aroused speculation that other top echelon government officials were under suspicion.

First intimation the former secretary, Maj. Gen. Jose Roman Fernandez, might be involved came June 8 when a decree was put out naming his successor. Then it became known he was under interrogation and Sunday a government spokesman said he had confessed being one of the plotters of the May 30 assassination.

Roman's reported involvement stamped the slaying of Trujillo as part of a plot to seize control of the government he had dominated for 31 years.

Government officials had originally atributed the slaying to a personal grudge. Subsequent reports have brought out that the plotters planned to take over the government.

Secret police were able to strike quickly because two of the alleged assassins were captured alive and Trujillo's chauffeur, left for dead, reportedly recognized the voice of one ploter.

Kenley Players Open Tonight

A top draw New York company of singers, dancers and comedians will assist the talented MacRaes.

Johnny Haymer, night club star, plays the part of the wily "Sandor", who tricks the unsuspecting "Sue" out of her cash. "Sue" is played by Broadway comedienne, Dorothy Greener. As the schemeing bookie, Johnnie Haymer, leads the large chorus is the musical number, "It's a Simple Little System."

$2,800 JACK OF HEARTS—It's a pretty steep game they're setting up for Sotheby's London salesroom come June 14—this playing card, which was made in Florence, Italy, in medieval times, is expected to be bid up to $2,800 or more. In its day it was known as the knave of cups, which is comparable to the presentday jack of hearts (which see). The card is embossed on leather, measures six and three-quarters by three and one-half inches. It is hand painted and illuminated with gold leaf. Somebody once bought it in a London antique shop for two dollars.

HAS RARE BONE DISEASE—Eighteen-month-old Peter Lollar of Little Rock, Ark., has a rare bone disease known as osteogenesis imperfecta, which means his bones are extremely brittle and the slightest bump will break a bone. Padded in foam rubber, he was to have been flown to Chicago for treatment at the Shrine Crippled Children's Hospital, but bad weather forced postponement of his trip. Now he is waiting for another appointment at the hospital.

BG Trustees Remain Mum About Dispute

BOWLING GREEN, Ohio (AP)—Bowling Green State University trustees have taken no immediate action on a proposal by some faculty members that they appoint a committee to review the dismissal of Philosophy Department Chairman Sherman M. Stanage.

The board of trustees previously had approved a nonrenewal of hte 33-year-old assistant professor's contract at the end of the June 1962 academic year.

The school administration said it was terminating Dr. Stanage's employment because it was unhappy with the religion program in his department.

However, a group of 65 of the school's 224 faculty members protested Stanage's dismissal and said the administration's reason was only a pretext—that he really was being fired for exercising free speech during a pre-Easter student demonstration.

Sunday's request for a review of Stanage's dismissal asked trustees to appoint a committee of seven professors "who are fair-minded and not committed to the administration." The committee would go over Stanage's case and be given a two-week deadline to report to the board and the administration.

The faculty proposal would have the committee's recommesdations binding on all parties.

Paperwork Staggering

WASHINGTON (AP)—Drug industry paperwork is almost as staggering as the names of the newest drugs.

Take corticosteroid, a drug used in the battle against arthritis.

The Pharmaceutical Manufacturers Association figures typewritten step-by-step details for the 5,200 analytical tests of corticosteroid require about 1,000 feet of paper.

Use of Artificial Hearts May Soon Become Reality

By JAMES NEVIN MILLER
Central Press Association Correspondent

A man-made valve for an injured heart. Some day soon surgeons may do what this scientist is doing, replacing an injured heart valve with a rubber one.

BOSTON — Use of artificial arterial grafts and heart valves will become more common and a beginning will be made in the construction of truly artificial hearts.

Such is the prospect for heart victims during the nex few years according to Dr. Paul Dudley White, as reported by the American Heart Association.

Not long after the distinguished Boston heart authority made this prediction, a young researcher from Akron, Ohio, almost made it come true. R. M. Pierson of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co. has been showing scientists here a model heart on which he has been perfecting a low-cost technique for fashioning both heart valves and the molds in which to make them from synthetic rubber.

Pierson expects that some day soon surgeons will be doing on an actual heart just what he has been doing on his heart model — replacing an injured heart valve with a rubber one. An effective valve designed to be sewn in the human heart has numerous basic uses, Pierson explains. These include long life, compatibility with human tissue, resistance to chemical deterioration by the blood they must pump through the body, resistance to the blood's natural tendency to clot when it encounters a foreign object, and reasonable ease in making valves.

Among various approaches, rubber has been nominated by some researchers as the material to do the job, inasmuch as heart tissues, arteries and veins are physically more like rubber than like any other non-living structural material. Pierson has been working with two other Goodyear researchers in Akron, A. F. Finelli and R. H. Mayor.

The new technique developed by the three scientists for fashioning heart valves and molds looks very promising indeed. Pierson explains that natural heart valves which the artificial ones must replace, are extremely thin and consist of two and three-petalled regulators which open like the petals of a flower when the heart squeezes, and relax to a closed position when the pressure abates.

Altogether, Pierson says, the haert has four valves and their function is to regulate the flow of blood to the chambers and the arterial-venous system.

Much of the Akron firms's research has een devoted to developing plastic matched molds from which valves are made, according to Pierson.

The basic techniques worked out by Goodyear for making both molds and heart valves can be applied to making valves of widely varied design to "other portions of the heart, including whole artificial hearts, and to other parts of the cardiovascular system," Pierson explains.

The company now is widening its program to pursue research on development of highly uniform mold making, with special emphasis on achieving a standard thickness for the heart valve petals, and to investigate how different types of artificial rubber can be developed to achieve highest life, greatest resistance to chemical deterioration, and minimized clotting, Pierson says.

"In essence we will be using the same approaches in making artificial heart valves that we are doing all the time in developing better rubber for tires," the young scientist explains.

Work to date has been in cooperation with W. J. Koliff of the Cleveland Clinic's Research Foundation and with Dr. F. S. Cross of the surgical research laboratories of St. Luke's Hospital in Cleveland.

The company's aim is to render all possible assistance to these and similar heart research projects by contributing its special chemical and rubber knowhow, according to Pierson.

Non-Shooting War On Reds Sought

WASHINGTON (AP) — A New York congressman has called for a formal declaration of war—but no shooting—against the Communist parties of the world.

Rep. John R. Pillon, R-N.Y., introduced a resolution to have Congrees declare a state of war exists between the United States and the Communists in 96 nations—a total he estimated at 36 million.

The resolution did not call for the use of military forces but pledged the resources of the United States to defend, anywhere and everywhere, the freedoms, the institutions and the governments of the free world against the international Communist conspiracy.

In a speech accompanying the resolution, Pillion said the war he has in mind "will be a war of economics, of political, and of diplomatic and psychological weapons."

Western languages stem from a single parent tongue, Indo-European, but no samples of the originla ever have been found.

AIR CONDITIONED
FOR YEAR ROUND COMFORT

and here's why more and more people are installing
GAS AIR CONDITIONING

Nearly everyone heats with GAS, and when they learn the facts about GAS air conditioning, they want it. They're pleasantly surprised to find how little it costs.

GAS provides year-round, total comfort using a central heating and cooling system controlled through one thermostat. In the summer you sleep better, cook and bake in a cool kitchen, enjoy your home more than ever. Then in winter, with the turn of a dial, your home is kept warm and snug with fresh air, GAS heat. You get all of this from the same GAS heating-cooling system. Why settle for less?

The installation cost of a central GAS heating-cooling system in a new home can be financed with the mortgage for a very modest increase in payments.

If you are planning to remodel, figure on adding a GAS air conditioning unit to your present forced air heating system. You can probably use the existing heating ductwork. You can finance the whole job through the gas company; pay for it with your gas bill.

If you plan to build or buy a new home or to remodel your present home, find out about GAS air conditioning. You'll want it! Call the Gas Company for full information.

Large Ones Nailed at England Farm

Ralph England and Norman Wilson, Pickaway Twp., will have fish to eat for quite a spell.

The two Logan Elm High School products bagged 13 fish of various sizes Sunday in a shallow ditch of water on the England farm, Route 1. They made the haul by using 22 caliber pistols instead of the conventional rod and reel.

The youths said they spotted the fish in about 1½ feet of fresh water which passes through the ditch. The ditch flows on to Congo Creek, probable source of the fish.

England said he wasn't sure what kind of fish they had bagged, but added that they appeared to be a cross between a carp and sucker.

The haul dressed out at 50 pounds, plenty of fish for any homemaker's freezer. Young England said the tender white meat was delicious when fried to a golden brown.

Jewelers, GE Get BR Wins

Mid Frames Decide Youth Loop Scraps

The baseball pattern known as "middle - inning power" told the tale in yesterday's Babe Ruth League encounters. Butch Jewelers used it to drop Third National, 13-7, in the minor circuit and GE utilized the middle frames to beat out the Chamber of Commerce, 5-4, in the majors.

Butch trailed 6-2 entering the bottom of the third inning after a five-run Third National uprising, mostly on walks, in the top of the frame.

But when 11 men had finished their parade to the plate, the Jewelers claimed a 10-6 margin. They had only three hits — singles by Arnie Starver, Bob Smith and Bob Levan — but made use of a trio of walks and two errors to reap the eight-run harvest.

Third National tallied one marker in the fourth but was held scoreless in the final two frames. Butch registered a single run in each of the final three stages to wind up with 13 runs and 11 hits.

THIRD National's totals read seven runs on but two hits, singles by Mike Hoffman and Bowman. Bob Smith was the winning pitcher.

In the majors, GE recorded all runs in the middle innings against the C of C team. The Chamber aggregation opened with two runs on singles by Terry Campbell and Chet Hill.

GE tied it up in the third and took a 4-2 lead on Curtis Vance's single and Gary Stewart's double in the fourth.

C of C hurler Jeff Lutz fanned the side in the fifth frame, but couldn't prevent the winning tally from coming across on a home-base steal by Bob Purcell.

The Chamber boys marked single runs in the fifth and sixth, but winning pitcher Jim Wood retired them in order in the ccrucial seventh inning.

Indian Lead Cut by Loss To Athletics

Yankees in Second After Victory over Los Angeles Crew

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Kansas City defeated Cleveland 7-5 in 10 innings Monday night and cut the Indians' American League lead to one game over New York and Detroit.

New York moved .004 percentage points ahead of idle Detroit with a 3-1 victory over the Los Angeles Angels.

The Chicago White Sox defeated Baltimore 9-8, and Boston beat Mnnesota 10-8 in the only other games scheduled in the AL.

In the only National League game scheduled, San Francisco beat Los Angeles 7-4, dropping the Dodgers a half-game behind first place Cincinnati.

The Yankees, working behind the four-hit pitching of right-hander Bill Stafford, broke up a two-hit shutout by losing lefty Ted Bowsfield (2-2) and came from behind with three runs in the sixth inning. Singles by Tony Kubek, Mickey Mantle and Elston Howard, a force out by Bill Skowron and a double by Hector Lopez did it.

Stafford (4-2), winning his fourth in a row, held the As hitless until the fifth inning, when Leroy Thomas opened with a single and scored on a double by Ken Hunt, who was cut down trying for a triple. Stafford walked two and struck out seven for his third complete game—the eighth in 14 games by the Yankees staff, which had produced only six in the first 42 games.

The As tagged the Indians with their third defeat in 16 games when Heywood Sullivan singled for his fourth hit in the 10th and pinch-hitter Leo Posada followed with a two-run, two-out homer off relief ace Frank Funk (7-4). Kansas City tied it 5-all with two runs in the ninth as Cleveland missed double plays. Jerry Walker, seventh Kansas City pitcher saved it for reliever Jim Archer (4-1) when Vic Power bunted into a force out and Kirkland and Woodie Held flied out with two on base.

Roy Sievers drove in three runs with a pair of homers for the White Sox, who nailed it on Al Smith's solo homer in the fifth off relief ace Hoyt Wilhelm. Dick Hyde (1-1) was the loser Don Larsen (2-0), acquired Saturday from Kansas City, was the winner in relief.

A walk and Chuck Schillings two-out single gave Boston the deciding run in the seventh. The Twins out-hit the Red Sox 15-11, and slugged three home runs, but left 17 on base. Ike Delock (4-2) won it with relief help.

The Giants, beating right-hander Roger Craig (3-4) for the first time in nine decisions since 1955, dropped the Dodgers with three runs in the fifth inning for a 7-2 lead. Orlando Cepedas double scored the clincher. Billy ODell (2-3) was the winner.

Major Loop Attendance Down 10 Pct. from '60

NEW YORK (AP) — Major league baseball attendanc efor 1961 continues 10 per cent under last season despite the addition of the two new American League teams, the latest figures disclosed today.

Tie, One-Run Triumph Mark Early Little League Scraps

A free - wheeling contest ending in a tie and a hard-fought, one-run victory marked the resumption of Little League play here last night.

The deadlock occurred in a Southend Playground scrap involving the minor league Rotary and Jaycees outfits. No official scorekeeper recorded the procession of runs and hits, but managers Charles Walters and Bill Ankrom agreed to call the game a 14-14 draw due to darkness.

If necessary the battle will be completed at a later date.

In the opening for Rotary were Farrel, Walters, Roy, Huffines, Helwagen, Garrison, Davis, Triplehorn and Dumm.

The Jaycees starting crew included Good, Ankrom, Melson, Sark, Black, Miller, Lovenshimer, Martin and Morrison.

THE Little Major League joust opened spectacularly, Coca-Cola belting out a pair of runs on a home run by Rick Congrove, second man to bat.

Jim Barnes slugged out a triple for the bottlers, but Bingman hurler Tim Stonerock finally retired the side on strikeouts.

The Drug crew countered for four markers in the bottom of the first on as many hits. Coca-Cola came back for another pair in the second but Bingman's again broke the tie with runs scored by Mack Shaw and Tom Cassill in their half.

Coke edged to within one run with a single counter on Rod Sines' single in the third.

In the fourth frame Coca-Cola took the lead for the first time since the opening inning on three runs tallied on Steve Dade's over-the-fence poke.

Bingman's cut the margin to 8-7 with a single run in the bottom of the fourth on Tim Stonerock's triple.

* * *

NEITHER squad marked a tally in the fifth stanza. Coke went out with only one man reaching base in the top of the sixth, and Bingman's came up for the last time trailing by one run.

Bruce Tigner sent the fans rolling toward the exits, though, belting out a solid double that brought home Tom Cassill and Stonerock with the tying and winning markers.

Stonerock went all the way for the 9-8 win, striking out eight batters and issuing as many walks.

Roy Sark hurled the first two frames for the losers and George Hill took the mound duties the final four.

Golfing
with ALEX MORRISON
Teacher of Champions

Gary Player's head position and other swing items may be the example that many amateurs and pros will try to follow in 1961.

GOLFERS, amateurs and pros alike, beware of wasting your time and energy with a harmful custom. This is trying to carry out the usual advice, or to copy the ways, of a leading tournament winner. By so doing you may find considerable amusement, but you can't bring any lasting improvement to your game.

The reason is both sound and simple. You and the player-advisor invariably fail to make the necessary distinction between personal mannerisms and universal essentials.

In golf it is most important to make this distinction. In club swinging and shot making the personal mannerism, instead of ever becoming a reliable item, actually causes inconsistencies in the performances of any player.

Mannerisms can exert only a negative influence and the positive influence comes only through essentials. Thus consistent success for any amateur or pro is possible only through using a minimum of mannerisms and a maximum of essentials.

A steady head position is a prime essential that will help all golfers in all of their shots.

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — The other day police officers W. E. Johnson and Ray Steiner went to a home of a man suspected of having left the scene of an accident. The man's wife said he wasn't home.

The officers decided to take a look inside anyhow. After looking under a couple of beds, each officer approached a closet. No one was inside the first. But when the second door was opened, there stood the missing man.

"Boo," he said in the policeman's face.

Detroit Course Said 'Monster'

National Open Players May Call It Impossible

BIRMINGHAM, Mich. (AP)—Oakland Hills, where the 61st National Open Golf Tournament will be played starting Thursday, is "a monster under normal conditions.

Seared by the kind of heat that has locked the Detroit area in its grip the last 24 hours, says Bob Rosburg, "it could make it impossible."

Rosburg, as knowledgeable a golfer as you'll find in the list of 149 challengers to defending champion Arnold Palmer, had just trudged in from another practice spin around the 6,907, day the thermometer rocketed to 91.

Bob, former PGA champion now registering from Portland, Ore., shot a 2-under-par 68 and, except for the heat and the weatherman's hint of more of it, might have been a good deal more optimistic.

Ben Hogan, who won his third of four open titles the last time America's golf classic was played here in 1951, is the one who has tabbed Oakland Hills—with its skinny fairways, fat traps, rolling greens and lush, thick rough—"the monster."

"It's tough enough as it is," said Rosburg. "The greens right now are in pretty lush shape and they're still a real challenge. If this heat should continue, and dry them out some, it's going to be impossible."

Husky, bronzed Palmer hustled back here after a couple days off for exhibitions and other appearances and shot a warmup 69—a score matched by former PGA champion Doug Ford, who beat Arnie in the sudden death playoff of the Speedway 500 tournament at Indianapolis two weeks back.

Gary Player, the South African who won the Masters title when Palmer blew to a duffer's 6 on the last hole at Augusta, has been looking at the course from all angles—playing as many as four balls on some holes.

EVERYBODY'S BOATING
By Frank Kuchirchuk, Central Press Writer

THE STORY out of Schneider, Ind., told of five children who drowned when the rowboat they were in upset. There were 10 persons aboard the 10-foot boat powered by an outboard. They were going fishing.

First reaction to the story was sympathy. But the more one thinks about it, the more it makes you angry. This was downright stupidity! Loading seven children and three adults into a small boat just doesn't make sense. What makes it worse, there were no life saving devices for the passengers.

The real tragedy of this situation is that other people will go right on doing the same thing. You would think this would be an object lesson. For your own or children's sake, find out the capacity your boat can carry safely and stick to it. And carry a safety device for every passenger. They can be any of those pictured above: a ring buoy, life jacket or a seat cushion, but make sure they are Coast Guard approved.

Let's not teach water and boating safety by using newspaper accounts of accidents. This is one case where experience is not the best teacher.

Views on Television-Radio

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — In the course of one TV year, there are usually two important beauty-contest programs—the finals of the Miss Universe and Miss America contests — and three important awards-presenting shows — Oscar, Emmy and TV Guide.

It's a wonder we don't have steady diet of the two categories. They almost always run away with the lion's share of the audience.

The new Nielsen ratings put last month's Emmy awards show at the top of the popularity lists, beating out even the perennial No. 1 entry, "Gunsmoke."

Tonight there is the TV Guide Awards, which will provide the home audiences with a chance to see their favorite stars in mufti. On July 15 the girl-watchers will have their annual chance to see the beautiful finalists in the Miss Universe contest. So the summer isn't entirely lost.

The Senate subcommittee currently investigating the alarming rise of juvenile delinquency is studying television as one possible factor. The committee is in the process of giving network brass a rough time, asking them to explain the super-abundance of violence — fights, guns, mayhem and murder — in their action shows.

Answers ought to be easy for TV spokesmen by now. Anthropologist Geoffrey Gorer observed that each time a new medium of mass communications has been developed, older people have blamed it for all the defects they see in the young. The movies first were blamed for juvenile delinquency, then radio. Now it's TV's turn.

And when the finger is pointed, the TV executives usually react by (a) pointing to all the cultural, no-action shows on their schedules (b) mentioning that Shakespeare had more blood-and thunder in his plots than the worst TV offender and (c) promising to keep a closer check on "unnecessary violence" in the future.

Although many have tried, it has been hard for students of TV and students of children to prove satisfactorily that television's violence has turned nice normal kids into young criminals.

Recommended tonight: TV Guide Awards Show, NBC, 10-11 (EDT)—with Nanete Fabray, Efram Zimbalist Jr. and Jackie Cooper.

New Courses In Home Ec Due in Ohio

State Education Panel Calls for Classes In 'Family Living'

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — New courses in home economics are in store for Ohio's high school students, both girls and boys.

An expanded home economics program was approved Monday night by the State Board of Education.

The program is aimed at attracting the interest of more girl students, particularly those who might drop out of school before graduation.

New courses in home economics which will be recognized as eligible for state-supported funds include one for slow learners, one in "family living" for boys and girls, and a course for students who are majoring in academic or commercial subjects.

About 70 per cent of the home economics funds distributed to the state's schools actually represent federal government money.

State board member W. G. Foreman of Zanesville said the new courses are required by "changing conditions," and that both boys and girls now need to have a basic knowledge of home economics.

Although Foreman didn't amplify on the "changing conditions," there's probably many a dish-washing, window-washing, floor-sweeping husband who knows what he means.

In another action, the board approved contracts totaling $456,980 with 10 Ohio universities and school systems under federal programs for teacher training and supervision of vocational education teachers.

Among transfer actions, the state board approved:

—Transfer of 125 acres, including a shopping center, from Warren Local (Trumbull County) to Warren City District.

—Transfer of 109 acres from Lincolnview (Van Wert County) to Van Wert City.

—Transfer of 3.7 acres from New Miami (Butler County) to Hamilton City.

Notice of intent to approve transfer also was given for portions of Elgin and River Valley, both Marion County, to Marion City.

The board upheld State School Supt. E. E. Holt's recommendation against transferring 408 acres from Berea to Cleveland.

After reviewing charges that Washington - Bloomfield High school, Morrow County, was in violation of 31 specific aspects of minimum school standards, the board served notice of intent to revoke the school's charter effective June 30, 1962.

Walsh College, Canton was authorized to offer two courses in professional education and academic courses leading to a bachelor of arts degree. The state board gave initial approval to the new institution a year ago for the offering of freshman courses in the 1960-61 school year.

New high school charters were approved for Indian Lake High School, Logan County; Lakeview High School, Trumbull County; Three Rivers High School, Coshocton County; Hathaway Brown Private schools, Shaker Heights; Chanel High School, Bedford; Divine Word Seminary, Perrysburg; McAuley High School for Girls, Toledo, and Bishop Hartley High School, Columbus.

Appointment Is Confirmed

The appointment of Frank L Marion, 217 N. Scioto St., as a democrat member of the Pickaway County Board of Elections has been confirmed by Secretary of State Ted W. Brown.

Marion was named for the post by the Pickaway County Democrat Executive Committee last Thursday. He replaced Ted Corcoran, who resigned to take a position as rural mail carrier in the Williamsport area.

Marion's term will expire February 29, 1964.

Ike Calls for Fixed Date For Resuming Nuclear Tests

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Old soldier Dwight D. Eisenhower still says no invasion can be successful without adequate air cover if there is opposing air power by the defense.

Gen. Eisenhower, who directed allied landings in World War II, made his statement Monday in commenting on the abortive invasion of Cuba by forces opposed to the regime of Fidel Castro.

The statement, at a news conference, came a day after new Republican National Chairman William E. Miller declared President Kennedy "rescinded and revoked the Eisenhower plan to have the Cuban freedom fighters protected by American air power."

The former president also said the United States cannot very much longer "keep on ice" the matter of resuming nuclear testing. He told the news conference "the time comes when we have to fix a date" beyond which the nation would not feel bound to abstain from testing.

"If we are just going to stand around talking," the Soviets could be testing without the United States knowing it, he asserted. Eisenhower said that before he left the White House "I told my people we definitely would take steps" toward fixing a date. So far as he knows, he said, no date has been set.

Eisenhower was here for a day of political activities. Several thousand persons sweltered in hot and humid weather to greet him at midday at Lunken Airport. He was showered with ticker tape and confetti as he rode in an open automobile to downtown Cincinnati.

The windup was a $100-a-plate dinner at Cincinnati's Music Hall with a packed house of 1,500 on hand.

Sen. Thruston Morton of Kentucky, who recently resigned as chairman of the Republican National Commitee, was the principal speaker. He called upon the Kennedy administration to define the boundaries beyond which communism would not be tolerated.

"If we want peace in our time we must draw the line," Morton said. "I don't know where the line is; the administration must find it. But we can't stand this constant erosion."

Eisenhower made a plea for Republican voices to be heard in constructive criticism.

"We are against irresponsibility," he said. "We don't want to turn over our responsibility to some small clique in Washington. We want progress but we want it to be responsible."

Buckeye Boys State Starts Operating; Officials Named

ATHENS, Ohio (AP)—Buckeye Boys State mock government began functioning Monday, despite the absence of all top officers who were in Columbus visiting Ohio Gov. Michael V. DiSalle.

DiSalle spent about a half-hour with about a dozen of the boys, discussing operation of state government and posing for pictures.

When he learned from Boys State Gov. Dennis Gillespie of Youngstown how his legislature was aligned politically, DiSalle quipped, "I can tell you a little bit about divided authority."

Gillespie, a Nationalist, is faced with a Senate controlled 21-17 by the Federalist party. DiSalle, a Democrat, is faced with a Senate and House controlled by Republicans.

The youngsters asked DiSalle about setting up a budget for their mock state. DiSalle in replying, indirectly referred to his troubles in getting a budget bill through the General Assembly.

"Don't worry about the budget," he said. "You just submit it and the legislature will cut it apart for you."

The Boys State Senate, meanwhile, was electing Douglas Adcock of Toledo as president pro tem and majority floor leader.

Henry Schilling of Cincinnati was chosen House speaker and Ted Lakkides of Massillon speaker pro tem.

Ferd Gaulke of Columbus turned up as assistant to the citizen who beat him in the secretary of state race, Michael Maguire of New Richmond.

Gov. Gillespie appointed his defeated rival, Neil Brayton of Youngstown, as his finance director. Richard Harch of Johnstown, who ran for treasurer, is director of unemployment compensation.

Some of the citizens elected and now serving in boys state offices are:

Sheriffs—Tim Hay, West Jefferson; Mike Groseclose, Galena; Warren Snead, Waynesville; Steve Hays, Elyria, and Denny Jones, Bellfontaine.

Common pleas judges—Samuel Hays, East Liverpool; Richard Swasey, Diamond; Mike Harrison, Lancaster; John Hale, Marysville, and Timothy Sullivan, Ravenna.
